The Intelligencer.

CAMPBELL & M'DERMOT,

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. L.

By the City of Boston yesterday from By the City of Hoston yestermay from Liverpool, we have news of the death of Lord Palmerston, one of the cidest, most famous and most popular of British statesmen. He has enjoyed a rempth. markable career and has been in conspicuous public life for half a century. His name dates back to the days of the Napoleonic wars, and comes down to us closely identified with all the succeeding agitations and reforms. The London Times and Lord Palmerston have been classed as the two best exponents of English public sentiment on any of English public sentiment on any question before the people, both dex-terously following while seeming to lead the popular current. Lord Palmersion achieved his highest distinction in the Crimean war, during which he was called by a clamor, never before known, to succeed the Aberdeen-Derby administration, which was strongly suspected of pro-Russian proclivities. A few years ago Lord Palmerston ventured on an experiment seldom tried with success in Great Britain. The government having been defeated on the China question, he, as Premier, instead China question, be as Premier of the Reditors Intelligencer:

I notice in the INTELLIGIENCER of yesterday that the vote for the House of Delegates for this county is announced as follows: Plnnell (Union) 374 Gould (Dem.) 324—and signed C. D. T.—thus representing candidates, which is utterly untrue. Both candidates are unconditional union men and would scorn to run for office under the rebel flag of modern as national republican candidates.

A modernized democrat could not get 100 votes in this county. I hope the China question, he, as Premier, instead of tendering his resignation, induced the Queen to prorogue Parliament, and then put himself upon the country for a verdict, and the country sustained him. His course on the American question during our late war was not was a democrat could not get 100 votes in this correction will be made not only in justified to the gallant Capt. Gould, of the old "Third," but in vindication of the country sustained him. His course on the American question during our late war was not was read to the country. Most respt'y, B. Russell on crimes, vol. 2d, p. 975, says:

"It is now settled that a pardon, whether by the King or act of Parliament, removes not only the punishment, but all legal disabilities consequent on the crime."

Bishop on Crim. Law, vol. 1, sec. 713, lays down the law thus: "The effect of a full pardon is to absolve the party from all legal consequences of his crime and of his conviction—direct or colateral—including the punishment, pecuniary penalty, or whatsoever clae the law has provided."

In the volume entitled "Opinions of niary penalty, or whatsoever clse the law has provided."

In the volume entitled "Opinions of the Attorney Generals," (vol. 1 p. 573.) Mr. Attorney Generals," (vol. 1 p. 573.) Mr. Attorney General Clifford says: "The elementary writers who have treated on this provision of the constitution, have regarded it (the power of pardon) as a general and unqualified power, reaching from the highest to the lowest offonces, and as including in its scope the authority to remit fines, penalties and forfeitures, which may in the last resort be exercised by the President. That it was said by Judge Story that no law you abridge the constitutional power of the Eccentee Department, or anterrupt the right to interfere by pardon. These views are sustained by Chancel-lor Kent and Rawle on the Constitution.

These authorities abundantly establish the proposition I'sh the proposition that the general amnesty, or special pardon of the Pres-ident, removes all traces of the offence, and makes the offender, as it were, a new man.

Some of the locals in our brother Wharton's Parkersburg Times are very original specimens, as for instance this one from his last received issue:

"We had much pleasure in eating, yes-terday, a protty large portion of a dozen qualis, let for us by Mr. John Morrison the best shot, the best musician and the noblest soul inside of seven counties. He understands how much an editor likes goodies."

SINCE July 1st the Government has received on an average nearly a million dollars a day from internal reveElection Returns.

A GENTLEMAN who arrived by last informs us that Hon, E. B. Hall, Attorney General, is elected Judge in the Martinsburg district, beating Kennedy, and that Chapline beats Downey for the Senate in the same district. He also in-

He speaks of Policy and California, He speaks of Policy and California and their equivalents in currency are wanted at the West. The western farmers and grain dealers are tired of the extortion that is sought to be presided upon them and have called a mass convention at Morris, III., November 2½, to see if they can't adopt some measures that will result in a reduction of freight clarges.

Seruno and Pall.—The people who whom Mr. Lincoln was killed, feared Mr. Johnson would be uply and vindicity towards the conquered robels, and so prolong and prevent reconstruction, and those others who looked upon the assessination as providental and rescuing the country from a fatally lenient policy towards the rebust his time, and compare notes and feelings. Times change and men change with them, very fast, indeed, in these years of the republic!

ALEX. H. H. Stuart writes a long letter to the New York Tanes, explanatory of his position, and these collers who looked upon the assessination as providental and rescuing the country from a fatally lenient policy towards the rebest, should get together about this time, and compare notes and feelings. Times change and men change with them, very fast, indeed, in these years of the republic!

ALEX. H. H. Stuart writes a long letter to the New York Tanes, explanatory of his position and views as a mem and association. But, as an offset to all and association. But, as an offset to all the pains and penalties for so doing, he claims that the President's pardon has made him "a new man." We quote from his letter as follows:

Let us now inquire what is the legal effect of such a pardon.

Bacon, vol. 5, p. 236, says:

"It seems agreed that pardon of treason or felony, even after an attainder, so far clears the party from the infamy and all other consequences thereof, that he may have an action against any who shall afterwards call him traitor or felon; for the pardon makes him, as it were, a new man."

All the more modern authorities sustain this view of the law. I might multiply clations almost indefinitely, but will content myself with a few passages from some of the most approved authors.

Russell on crimes, vol. 2d, p. 975, says:

If we improve the rare opportunity now open to the exhibition of our inducements, we have some grounds to hope that the next delegation of financial and industrial magnates from Europe will not leave the young State of West Virginia unheeded on their exploring trip to the West, for which the happy phrase of Great West, and a public spirited system of universal advertisement, no less than her real attractions, have won suchgolden popularity abroad.

Not having been fayored with any circular documents in relation to the terms of our admission in Paris I can make no practical suggestion at present, but trust the necessary room might be retained at once for the State at large, until the articles to be exhibited could be specified. By giving notice through all the papers in the State, it is probable that a complete list could be made up in a month or two. If less is proposed than there is room for, we will not be at a loss for more, and if the supply should exceed the space, the bulk of minerals and rare materials can be easily reduced, or the excess exhibited in a private locality with samples at the exhibition for reference.—

If a Commissioner is appointed to superintend our State exhibition, and to promote its objects, his mission if properly understood and conscientiously fulfilled will be no sinecure. I believe the Virginia Commissioners of 1850 were vagtly less useful than ornamental, and very little good that I am aware of has ever resultad from their services.

Hoping you will kindly consider my mealled for suggestions on this tonic. I

Neither is it likely to be worth the paper it is printed on. Even if the Republicans should eventually re-establish themselves in Mexico, they will have no means of redeeming their debt, and it is not likely in any event to be assumed by our Government or any other. The Fenian financial scheme is still more desperate and mischievous, for thousands of impulsive and thoughtless Irish men and women may invest in it money which they and their families are in need. There is something very attractive to an Irishman in the prospect of redeeming his native land from oppression, and it is very likely to run away with his judgment and good sense. But the whole Fenian movement is a bubble, if not a swindle. The leaders in it will probably collect a good deal of money from their credulous countrymen, but a very small portion of it will ever find its way across the Atlantic. There is no more chance to-day for a successful revolution in Ireland, than there is in New York. Irishmen will do a great deal better to use what money they can save, in getting comforts for their families, in educating their children, than in giving it to a set of irresponsible adventurers, who will only laugh at their credulity sentiment of a ballen and the set of the families, in educating their children, than in giving it to a set of irresponsible adventurers, who will only laugh at their credulity sentiment of a ballen a number of leading any kind, into investing their money in
